

To the Editor of the Dispatch:

1. Is it correct to say from 12 to 2 P. M., meaning from 12 o'clock at noon to 2 P. M., or should it be from 12 M. to 2 P. M.?

2. Is it ever correct to say 12 P. M., and if so, when?

A. & M.
Richmond, January 8, 1884.

1. "From 12 M. to 2 P. M." is the correct phrase.

2. Yes; it is a way of distinguishing 12 at night from 12 in the day.

Relief from Itch.

William Hays, aged thirteen years, has just left the Homoeopathic Hospital, Philadelphia, having undergone a successful operation for the removal of the left kidney. It is said to be the first case of the kind on record in that city.

The largest photograph in the world, representing a confederate of Knights Templar of Rochester, is on exhibition at New York. It is four and one-half feet high, ten and one-half feet long, and weighs with frame and glass 600 pounds.

Geologists are watching closely the dumps at the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's new tunnel at Phoenixville, and have secured some fine specimens, including fossils containing five or six varieties of shells, one complete fish, a number of worms, and a bone supposed to be that of an extinct species of lizard.

St. Louis is afflicted with a water famine, caused by the housekeepers allowing the water to run constantly, in order to prevent its freezing in the pipes. In case a big fire breaks out there is no knowing where it would stop, as there is no water in the reservoirs, and both the fire department and their apparatus are crippled.

Phillip Brindle died in West Paterson, N. J., recently, after a peculiar illness of some months. What it was no physician could tell. One singular thing about him was that during all that time if anybody but his daughter or a neighbor named Stoner came near him or within range of his vision he at once fell into a paroxysm resembling the state of a person suffering from a severe galvanic shock. He had no control over himself at such times. He could take food in all that time from nobody but his daughter. He spent a long time in a hospital, but nothing could be done for him, and he was discharged as incurable.

A New York telegram of the 8th says: At about 8 o'clock this morning James C. Townsend and wife, living in Oyster Bay, were found by a hired man lying on their kitchen floor unconscious, having been assaulted with a mason's hammer. The house had been robbed. The man (colored) was taken to the hospital. Mr. Townsend is still unconscious. Mrs. Townsend rallied during the morning, but has since become unconscious. She is seventy years old, and is a sister of General Winde, of the Confederate army. Mr. Townsend is seventy-five years old, and is a descendant of the original patentee of that name of the town of Oyster Bay.

The twelfth annual meeting of the Commercial Travelers' Association of New York was held at Syracuse Tuesday. The reports of the officers show a total membership of $1,091, a net gain of 104; deaths, 34; paid beneficiaries $710,000, of which $20,000 was paid from the reserve fund. The treasurer's report shows a balance on hand last year of $51,272; total income, $86,953; disbursements, including $40,000 to beneficiaries from the reserve fund, $42,567; balance on hand, $51,386, of which $51,774 is invested in registered Government bonds. President Eaton estimates the number of commercial travelers in the State of New York at 10,000, and in the United States at 100,000.

The annual "Jackson" banquet of the leaders of the Democratic party of Massachusetts and celebration of the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans took place at the Parker House, Boston, Tuesday. More than two hundred gentlemen, identified with the Democratic organization, were present, among them being ex-Governor Butler, ex-Mayor Palmer, Governor Abbott of New Jersey, Hon. Blodgett, John Tarbox, and ex-Governor Garcelon of Maine. A telegram was received from Samuel J. Tilden and letters from General Hancock, Speaker Carlisle, Governor Jarvis of North Carolina, and many others. The chief speeches of the afternoon were those of General Butler, Governor Garcelon, Blodgett, and John Tarbox.

A Politician's Downfall.

was the speaker's claim to the criminality of his conduct.

A Newark, N. J., telegram of Tuesday says: Ex-Speaker of the House of Assembly John Egan, charged with bribery, came into Trent Tuesday morning and entered a plea of non-vult, withdrawing his former plea of guilty. His sentence was set down for the 17th instant. He was wrapped up in heavy shawl, and looked pale and careworn.

In 1876 he was elected to the House of Assembly, and during his service in Trenton he was noted for his activity and ready debating powers. He was re-elected in 1877 and 1878. It was during the latter year he was elected speaker, but the first man of Irish birth who ever occupied that exalted position in New Jersey. Since his retirement from the speakership his downward course has been rapid. Every winter he haunted the halls of legislation, looking for a place.

It was last winter which brought on the crisis, when he thought to turn "an honest penny" by bribing Mr. Armistead to "let up" on the bills which the latter had introduced for the reduction of tolls over the Newark plank road. It is believed that Egan was asked to do this work by the agents of corporations who did not want Armistead's bills to pass. Egan was in desperate straits for money and he was only too glad to undertake such a speculation. He has a wife and three children living in Elizabeth.

It was a remarkable career. It began at the shoemaker's bench, rose gradually to the speaker's chair, and then descended to the criminal's box in a court of justice. The punishment in New Jersey for bribery is the infliction of a fine not less than $1,000 nor more than $5,000, and imprisonment exceeding five years, or both, and the offender shall "be forever disqualified to hold any office of honor, trust, or profit under this State." Mr. Egan was one of the council that planned the invasion of Canada by the Fenians in 1866, and was a member of the Clan-na-Gael and other Irish revolutionary societies in this country.

Homeopathy.

The fact that a committee of the Massachusetts Legislature has strongly recommended that the public insane asylums be placed under the control of the State physicians leads the Baltimore Herald to make the following comment: "The fact that the State should take the opinions of such a numerous body with some consideration, and permit it to have a voice—small though it be—in the conduct of public institutions." It may be that the State of Massachusetts has information that some of the best hospitals in the north are under homeopathic control.

Two Husbands Claiming an Estate.

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts Tuesday finally settled a case which has been before them for some time. It was that of the will of Mary M. Hardy, a well-known spiritualist medium, who died two or three years ago, leaving a handsome fortune. In 1870 Mrs. Hardy agreed to give her husband, John, six thousand dollars if he would furnish evidence whereby she might obtain a divorce. This he did, and a divorce was obtained from a Utah court and Hardy received his money. The woman then married Ezra G. Perkins, her affinity, and shortly thereafter died of consumption, leaving one half of her property to her husband. The word "husband" has been the cause of the litigation, and it is now decided that the Utah divorce was of no effect, and that Hardy, being the lawful husband and not having consented to the will in writing, is entitled as distributee to one half of the personal estate, but that the testatrix meant Perkins when she wrote "husband."

RELIABLE TESTIMONY.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., September 6, 1882.

Hop Bitters Company:
I am seventy-four years old, have lived thirty-four years in Philadelphia, and well known to many Germans. I have been troubled twelve years with a white swelling on my right foot, and getting worse every year, and very painful, and breaking out in sores. I consulted several doctors, and they told me it was incurable, and I would have to take it with me in the grave. Some time ago I lost my appetite, was constipated, had headache, and fever; in fact, was very sick. I saw in the German Democrat that Hop Bitters was what I needed. I got a bottle, took it one week, and was again as ever, and to my great surprise, the swelling on my foot went down gradually, and I taking another bottle, got entirely well. I think this is a great triumph for your Bitters. I think this is a great triumph for your Bitters. I think this is a great triumph for your Bitters.

No. 4 Young's alley, above Willow street.

STIPSHILL, IND., November 13, 1881.

Dear Sir: I have read so much about Hop Bitters, and always being afflicted with neuralgia, weakness, diseased stomach, never having much health, I tried a couple bottles; it has strengthened me more than any medicine or doctor. I am now on my third bottle, and am thankful that it has helped me. I will advise all that are afflicted to give it a trial.

LUCY VAIL.

BEAT THE WORLD.

ROCKVILLE, CONN., March 6, 1882.

Hop Bitters Company:
I have been taking your Hop Bitters for several weeks, and they beat the world.

L. S. LEWIS, Lewis's Axes Machine.

LEETONIA, PA., April 13, 1882.

Hop Bitters Company:
I have not been well for three years; tried almost every kind of patent medicine and no relief. Seven doctors, one of them, N. Y., tried to cure me, and I finally tried your Hop Bitters, and found them just what I needed. I have praised them so highly there is a great number here who use them with great benefit and satisfaction.

Very respectfully yours,
H. H. HUST.

WANTED, TWO GOOD MOULDERS

J. H. WEST & SONS,
Twelfth street, between Canal and Byrd.

WANTED IT KNOWN, THAT THE burning of the Knolls Works of Manchester some time ago had nothing to do with the operation of the TERRA-COTTA AND DRAIN-TILE WORKS. There is no connection with the Knolls Works, there is no general impression that when the Knolls Works burned it put a stop to the TERRA-COTTA AND DRAIN-TILE WORKS, which is not the case. The works have been carried on all the while by the proprietor, who has limited supply on hand now.
